Police uncover cannabis factory after post office robbery

REPORTER

Police swarming north Kingston after a post office was robbed with a fake gun unwittingly stumbled upon a cannabis factory nearby

Officers arrested two men after the robbery at the post office run by RK Gupta in Park Road last Thursday. They then discovered a cannabis factory after searching a nearby house.

Witness Nicole Halton, who works at the Park Salon opposite the post office, said: "I heard Mr Gupta shouting and I ran out. We just saw a man in a hoody and another man and they ran. Then there was another man with a bike trying to chase them.

"Mr Gupta was really shaken up. He is a lovely man and we know him really well. It was quite an ordeal. We are glad he's OK."

It is believed two men had tried to distract the post office worker by asking for cigarettes from behind a different counter before raiding a till and blocking his way.

Next door, Wasim Mohammed, who was working at Deluxe Launderette and Dry Cleaners, said: "It was really quick. I just saw people running.

"I didn't hear a thing because I had my earphones in. I couldn't figure out what was going on for a while. The police were very quick to respond though."

Plumber Tarig Abdaltam, 46, of Park Road, said: "I'm very shocked. I've never heard of anything like that happening around here. My wife and children saw some people running though."

"I'm glad the man is OK – I will go and see him once the post office is open again."

Mr Gupta's daughter spoke to the Kingston Guardian briefly.

She said: "My dad is a bit drained, but everyone has been so nice. I've got the school mums texting me to say 'Is your dad all right?' And the phone has been ringing non-stop with messages of support."

Outside the post office a sign told customers the shop would be closed until further notice following the raid. It was due to open today.

Another resident who did not want to be named, said: "Maybe they do it around here because it's quieter. It's terrible."

"It's a family business so it's very frightening and worrying for them."

□ Two men have been charged with robbing a post office carrying a fake gun.

Paul Paradise, 34, of New Road, Kingston, and Danny Carrig, 18, also of New Road, appeared at Wimbledon Magistrates' Court on Saturday, June 28, charged with conspiracy to rob and carrying an imitation firearm.

They were not asked to enter a plea and were remanded in custody before a hearing at Kingston Crown Court on July 11.

A 34-year-old man is on bail in relation to the cannabis factory.

Viking warning for developer

CHIEF REPORTER
ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

Developers have been told not to "act like Vikings" as the future of Kingston town centre was discussed at an exclusive business conference this week.

Kingston Council leader Kevin Davis delivered the warning at the end of Kingston Futures, held at the Rose Theatre on Tuesday, which effectively put Kingston in the shop window for potential investors.

About 150 business delegates paid £354 a ticket to be at the day-long event, which pitched Kingston as a viable destination for retail, commerce and tourism in the wake of increased competition from the likes of Guildford, Croydon and the Westfield shopping centre.

The revamped ancient market – officially re-opened that day – Crossrail 2, and the £30m mini-Holland cycling project, were also discussed.

Speakers included London deputy mayor for business Kit Malthouse, Kingston Council leader Kevin Davis, cycling commissioner Andrew Gilligan and Kingston-first chief executive Ros Morgan.

Claudette Forbes, programme manager of Shaping Kingston, outlined the development opportunities available, including Eden Quarter, north Kingston and Kingston train station.

But she emphasised developments must be done within Kingston Council's vision for the town centre, and not just "piecemeal" schemes aimed solely for profit.

She said: "This is our best chance to affect the change and transformation the town needs.

"It's very important we get this right. It cannot be done piecemeal."

In his closing conference speech, Coun Davis reiterated the message, alluding to Kingston's history as the site where King Aethstan, the first King of England, was crowned in AD925.

Coun Davis said: "It's an extraordinary fact that the town has hidden for many years, that this is the place where England began.

"In 838 a charter was signed here between the king and a bishop, which set out how the church and the monarchy would carve up the kingdom.

"In 925 a man came here to be crowned, but unlike other Saxon kings he was the first King of England.

"In 1009, the Vikings came here, and burnt down the small church which is now All Saints.

"I say to you – don't be Vikings. Don't come here and pillage.

"Why not be that king, who came here and created a great kingdom?"

Wow factor or shambles?

Kingston market place officially opened last week but was immediately disowned by the new leader of Kingston Council as a "shambles".

London's deputy mayor Kit Malthouse was in Kingston for the official re-opening of the ancient market place this week after a £3m revamp.

New Conservative Council leader Kevin Davis, whose party regained power in May's elections tweeted: "I thanked him personally and then told him how sorry I was that the former administration had wasted it on such a shambles."

Children from St Agatha's School joined market place manager Mark Teasdale and others to celebrate in the sun.

Fresh start? Kit Malthouse declares the Market Place open

Kingstonfirst chief executive Ros Morgan said: "It has been blood, sweat and tears but today has demonstrated what we had in mind all along." Kingston Councillor Chrissie Hitchcock said: "It has been something I've wanted to see for 20 years.

"We've now got a wow factor market. We had all that pain, but this is the gain."

Kingston – The Way We Were – a century in the life of the royal borough combines stories from the Comet archives with old photos and cine film to present a fascinating look back at the borough's history.

The Kingston Guardian is offering the DVDs for £15.50 and topics include the coming of the railway, the opening of the electric tramway, and the problems caused by motor cars in the ancient streets.

The joyous scenes at the removal of tolls on Kingston Bridge, the celebrations to commemorate landmarks in the town's history, and the Charter Day festivities in Surbiton and New Malden are included.

The DVD also covers the visit to Kingston of George VI and the Coronation Day parties for Elizabeth II.

It also reveals the remarkable role of the district during the Second World War and the death and destruction wrought on Kingston, Surbiton and New Malden, first by bombs, and later, the dreaded V1 and V2 rockets.

The DVD is produced exclusively for the Kingston Guardian and is narrated by award-winning actor, Howard Ellison.

The running time is about 50 minutes.

Whole lotta mistaking going on over rock 'n' roll legend's Kingston gig Great balls-up as Jerry Lee show not confirmed

REPORTER

ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

Rock 'n' roll fans must have thought it was too good to be true when legend Jerry Lee Lewis was announced for a show at the Kingsmeadow stadium.

But they will have to wait and see if their hero turns up at next year's exclusive, intimate gig after a mix-up led to the show being advertised before it has been confirmed with the Great Balls of Fire singer's people.

Lewis, the last surviving member of the legendary Million Dollar Quartet jam session, also featuring Elvis Presley, Carl Perkins and Johnny Cash, is due to play three UK shows on his 80th birthday tour next year, his last in Europe.

If a gig on Saturday, June 13, 2015, is one of them, it will be a massive coup for Jim Piddington, Kingsmeadow Live organiser.

He apologised to Lewis' manager Greg Ericson this week after announcing the gig, with UK promoter Sound Craft, before it has been confirmed.

Fans were offered £50 off the £200 ticket price if they pre-ordered before June 11. Two hundred people have expressed interest in tickets for the 300-capacity venue.

But Mr Ericson then said: "We have no agreement to do shows with Sound Craft. If they come up with the money, in advance, we might do shows with them, but as of today we are not.

"We are currently negotiating a few shows for 2015, but that's all. The only place you will find real shows is on his website. If the details are not there they aren't authorised."

The show was removed from Kingsmeadow Live's website last Thursday.

Mr Piddington said he had apologised for the confusion, but hoped the gig would still go ahead.

He said: "I've spoken to Greg Ericson, I've said sorry, and he seems happy with that."

"The gig was never confirmed. We were just taking pre-orders to see what sort of interest we would get. If it doesn't happen then nobody loses any money, as nobody has parted with any."

Big name bookings do not always work out. Mike Tyson's promised appearance at Oceana in 2012 never bore fruit, while footballer John Terry had to issue a statement denying he was due at the opening of Reptile Kingdom in Surbiton.

But Mr Piddington said: "We're working very hard to make it happen – and it could still happen. We really want it to happen."

GUILTY OF GBH: Thug lost control after 'dump him' text Man who knifed love rival in face is jailed

REPORTER

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

A kitchen fitter knifed a love rival in the face who had texted his girlfriend telling her to dump him.

Darren Mayle, 34, pleaded guilty to causing GBH to Martin Brammelly in an attack at the victim's home in St Albans Road, Kingston, on New Year's Day.

Having previously denied the charge, Mayle, of Aldersbrook Drive, changed his plea the day his trial was due to begin at Kingston Crown Court.

His victim has been left with a permanent 3cm to 4cm facial scar.

Defence counsel Joao Arsenio said: "This is a regrettable incident that started because of something Mr Mayle was told by a lady he was with."

"This lady told Mr Mayle, he [Mr Brammelly] had sent her a text message saying 'dump him' and that was really what triggered the whole incident."

"Mr Mayle took this as offensive – that is what led to Mr Mayle going to Mr Brammelly's house to face him.

Guilty: Darren Mayle

"It was clearly a lack of judgement, excessive impulse."

"He has asked me to convey his deepest apologies to Mr Brammelly."

The court heard the pair knew each other.

Mayle had been drinking beer and smoking cannabis earlier in the day before he stormed the home just before midnight.

He had texted his victim: "Open the door or it's going in".

Mr Brammelly tried to call police, but was prevented by a 10-minute struggle that left him with the facial injuries, the court heard.

He sounded the alarm after managing to throw the weapon out of the front door.

Mayle went out to fetch it, shouting: "I will come back and shove the knife down your throat."

Judge Ann Mulligan addressed the defendant in the dock, on June 23, and said: "You have pleaded guilty to an extremely serious offence."

"You did react in a totally disproportionate manner. You clearly lost control and took a knife to the victim's home."

"This was a hugely traumatic incident and it has had a long-standing affect on him – the scar that is permanent is only one of these."

Mayle's sister, who sat in the public gallery with his father, quietly sobbed as he was sentenced to four years and eight months – of which, at least half will be served in custody.

Mayle, who has previous convictions for public order offences dating back to 2005, also had an aggravated burglary charge left on file.

Murderer faces extradition from Spain

The extradition of a Surbiton man found guilty of murdering a woman in Spain is set to begin.

Sean Heiss, who lived in the Sheraton in St Mark's Hill, was found guilty by a jury in Barcelona of repeatedly stabbing mother-of-three Clementina Nauta Liscano outside a cashpoint in September 2012.

Heiss, 30, was sleeping rough in the Catalan capital while police hunted him over the death of his mother, Margot Sheehy, in June 2012.

The Metropolitan Police said last week they hoped to begin extradition proceedings once Heiss had been sentenced.

A Spanish prosecutor told jurors that Heiss pushed his victim to the ground outside the cashpoint and "continued hitting her in the face and head with strong and repeated strikes of his feet and/or fists".

He added: "After this the accused went back into the cashpoint and took a knife from his personal effects, with which he returned to where he had left Clementina."

"He repeatedly stabbed her in the throat and face, continuing to land blows and kicks, intending to kill her or, at least, knowing that her death would result from the attack."

"Clementina was taken to the Hospital Clinico de Barcelona where she eventually died at 1.50pm the same day."

The jury returned its verdict on Thursday, June 19.

Prosecutors are seeking a 25-year prison sentence and compensation for Ms Nauta Liscano's family, including her three children, aged between nine and 13.

As the Kingston Guardian went to press, Judge Carmen Sanchez Alborno had not set a date for a sentencing hearing.

Two years ago UK police issued a Europe-wide warrant for Heiss' arrest, but were thwarted when police in San Sebastian, in northern Spain, let him walk out of a police station after he allegedly threatened a woman with a knife.

A LIDL HELP? Chancellor announces supermarket's new jobs plan

Osborne drops in at Lidl

REPORTER

JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@
london.newsquest.co.uk

George Osborne has revealed he shops at Lidl, and said if Kingston Council wants more revenue for services, it must attract more businesses to the borough.

Visiting Lidl in Leatherhead Road, Chessington, to announce the chain's new jobs plan, the Chancellor said that in Downing Street Waitrose delivers his groceries, but that he does use a Lidl in his Tatton constituency.

Asked whether the success he claimed for the Government's economic strategy would mean a loosening of the purse strings – and more cash for Kingston – he said: "We've still got to deal with the deficit. Part of our long-term economic plan is to make sure Britain can pay its way."

"We've said to councils, if you can create more jobs locally [and] bring businesses into the area then you will share in some of the extra revenue."

"[Kingston Conservatives] want to bring businesses into the town centre, make sure there are more jobs here, and that will benefit residents. There will be more money going into the council for services. "Seeing what they are doing here with the new leadership is great."

Last year the Government introduced a policy of letting councils keep a share of business rates and other revenue, with the aim of promoting economic growth.

Lidl's move to create 2,500 new full-time jobs will see between six and eight come to the Chessington store, according to UK managing director Ronny Gottschlich.

None of the posts will use the controversial zero-hours system, he said.

He said: "We don't have any zero-hours contracts in our business. These are full-time jobs."

Chessington store manager Sunim Miah said: "It is the first time we've had a visit like that. He saw how we do our bakery and fresh produce. He spoke to most of the staff as he was walking around. Whoever he bumped into."

Mr Osborne was shepherded around the supermarket before journalists were herded into a staff room for questions.

As he was leaving Mr Osborne said he had "nothing to say" on whether senior politicians should be given training on avoiding prejudice to court trials, following criticism of the Prime Minister by the judge in the recent phone hacking trial.

RAPE TRIAL:

A Kingston man has denied raping a woman in a car park. Mohammed Elhusni Alkielani, 49, of Fairfield South, appeared at Kingston Crown Court on Friday, June 27, charged with two counts of rape. The alleged sexual attack took place at Homebase car park in Twickenham Road, Feltham, on June 12. Mr Alkielani will face trial at Kingston Crown Court in the week beginning December 1.

BRAGSILIAN FLAIR:

The World Cup final will be celebrated with a day-long street party in Kingston next week. Burton Road will be closed from 9am to 11pm on Sunday, July 13, as the Brag residents' association holds Bragsil 2014. The street will be used for children to play, while a 3m TV screen shows the match from 8pm. Visit bragstreet.org/bragsil for more information.

BIKE THIEF:

A man has admitted stealing three bikes from Kingston town centre. Khaled Zaman, 28, from Aldgate, stole bikes valued up to £900 from Wood Street and Thames Street. He appeared at Wimbledon Magistrates' Court on June 23 and will be sentenced on July 14 following pre-sentence reports.

There was nothing fundamentally wrong with the layout of the old market place. Not sure how the cost and disruption caused by this development can be justified, particularly in the current climate.

SQUARE REVAMP: New paving has ruined town centre

Should we rename it Kingstain Market?

I am certain that I am not alone in my huge disappointment that the handsome and very expensive new paving in the market square already looks horribly stained and be-gummed. And this not in years or months, but within days of completion.

Just now I watched a food vendor scrape the remaining contents of his chopping board on to the pavements.

Everywhere there are huge grease stains and the amount of overall staining is extraordinary. I guarantee that anyone who did not know when the market was finished would imagine that these filthy grey blocks had been down for years.

I should like you to know what process was used in choosing the blocks.

From their thickness I imagine they were not inexpensive and they look of good quality, but they seem to have been designed explicitly to render every stain, mark and fatty deposit in full detail.

The slabs in the main shopping drag, which of course have been there much longer, look pristine by comparison. This is a failure of epic proportions and I imagine no one will be held accountable. Of course the social deviants who discard their disgusting spent gum are somewhat to blame, but it is self-evident that the flooring is wholly inadequate for the functions of the market. Perhaps we should rename it Kingstain Market?

TONY LANCASTER

What we had before was a charming and characteristic market, though it needed more stalls.

Now that huge sums of money have been wasted on this gimmicky, childish effort, one only hopes that someone will open a proper market in the vicinity soon.

Shocking. Many people should be ashamed of ruining such an important part of Kingston and at such a cost.

JACQUELINE CARDUCCI
 Via email

I worked on the market for over 20 years.

I am born and bred in Kingston and always been proud of Kingston and the market.

I must say how much I hate the new look.

It has lost all the character. Nobody I have spoken to likes it.

DAWN BUTCHER

Living and working in Kingston is an honour. It goes without saying how utterly beautiful it is.

Kingston's ancient market renovation is incredible and worth the long wait.

But it is actually the stall holders that make the market.

And it is great to have them all back.

Tony, from Tony's fruit stall, is such a hero, but they are all wonderful and I hope everyone will continue to support all the stallholders, the old ones and the new ones.

No need for sports days' PA systems to be cranked up to 11

We are approaching that time of year when local schools and others, hold their annual sports days, which in the Norbiton area of Kingston means Kingsmeadow stadium.

If previous years are anything to go by, we will no doubt be regaled again by more females screeching down the microphone like demented banshees.

The problem is that the prevailing wind in this area comes from the west, which means in practice that the whole of New Malden gets drowned out with the noise.

Quite frankly there is simply no need for the PA system there to be operated at that level of volume, and I would earnestly request via the medium of this newspaper, that the stadium management take steps to redress this issue, which has previously caused Conflict of interest?

Re: your story of Kingston's new Councillor Phil Doyle, who has been appointed as chairman of the council's licensing committee, a role requiring an understanding of legal concepts and good judgement.

Your article states he is a law lecturer, who has also worked for a local authority.

As a former public sector lawyer, I know, as does Mr Doyle, that it is blindingly obvious that as a licensing consultant in Surbiton a potential, if not actual conflict of interest, clearly occurs and should have been flagged up and disclosed.

The codes for councillors require openness and transparency. There may or may not be an actual conflict, but the fact that a potential (and I would suggest blindingly obvious) conflict may exist does cast significant doubt on the judgement of all those involved. Mr Doyle may be new to this, but [leader of council] Kevin Davies, really.

Anyone involved in public life understands, and is taught that, justice must not only be done, but must manifestly be seen to be done.

This whole affair is a very poor reflection on the political judgement of those involved and I look forward to an explanation as to why no conflict exists, and secondly why no pecuniary interest (defined as a business or employment interest) exists, nor was disclosed, and finally why a formal complaint re standards is not appropriate.

I have no political axe to grind. Councillors may like to reflect on the alienation of voters from politicians.

IN ESSENCE: Nightclub's closure order 'was not invalid' No support for Lumba bid to re-open Essence

CHIEF REPORTER
ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

Essence nightclub owner Franco Lumba has failed in a bid to re-open his club.

The former Gala Bingo hall owner's company, FL Trading, was unsuccessful in its attempt to have the decision to revoke the licence ruled invalid.

It claimed the closure order was invalid because it had not been signed by Kingston police borough commander Glenn Tunstall, which it said was required by statute.

Essence, in Buckland's Wharf, was closed by Kingston Council at the request of the Metropolitan Police after an alleged 30-man brawl outside the club in December.

The court heard that more than half of the 210 identified clubbers that night had criminal convictions, including manslaughter, attempted murder, possession of firearms, sexual assault, robbery, burglary, drug dealing and assault on police.

Superintendent Tunstall was on holiday at the time of the incident, so acting superintendent

Troubled club: Essence; Owner Franco Lumba, inset Deadlinepix KT82193

Gary Taylor signed the forms.

James Rankin, appearing on behalf of the Metropolitan Police Commissioner, said delegating duties to a deputy was written in case law.

Judge Frances Patterson ruled

FL Trading's case was "unarguable", and also dismissed an allegation of bias.

FL Trading still has the option to appeal the decision through the magistrates' court, she added.

Nonsuch girls are inspired to achieve

The headteacher and staff invite you to an open evening at Nonsuch High School for Girls on Thursday, July 10, from 4pm to 8.30pm.

This is an opportunity for you to tour the school with your daughter, to look at its very impressive facilities and grounds, to find out about Nonsuch's rich and varied curricular and extra-curricular programmes, and to hear about the application and testing process for entry to the school in September 2015.

The school in Cheam has recently made some significant changes to its admissions. It has increased the number of places in year 7 from 180 to 210; it has introduced a new two-stage test; and it has changed its over-subscription criteria to encourage local residents and children from less advantaged families to apply.

Nonsuch is proud of its academic achievements and of its broad range of extra-curricular activities and success in many fields. Girls at the school are motivated and encouraged to succeed by highly specialised and supportive staff.

The open evening is the ideal way to learn more about Nonsuch, to see what it has to offer and to discover whether it would be the right place for your daughter's secondary education.

You will also be able to meet and talk to current students who will no doubt tell you what the school is really like.

Saluting our young reporters

London's most talented teenage journalists have received awards from the Kingston Guardian's owners Newsquest.

The youngsters triumphed in our annual Young Reporter Awards, beating almost 1,000 other students at 100 schools across the capital and in parts of Kent and Surrey.

Set up six years ago, the scheme allows school pupils to get a taste of life as a journalist by completing a series of assignments which are then published on our websites.

The quantity and quality of entries was higher than ever this year and the judges had great difficulty in selecting the winners.

Tara Madsen, a year 10 pupil from Tiffin Girls' School, scooped best feature for years 10/11.

She wrote about the Shard's best-kept secret, the view from the WCs, saying: "If you ever visit the Shard, go to the toilets. Never has such a miraculous experience been so completely overlooked."

Deadlinepix SU84038/KT84166

She said: "Although it has certainly proved a challenge to juggle school-work, exams and uploading articles on time, it has been a thoroughly enjoyable experience that has helped me to grow and develop and try out different styles of writing."

Muhammed Hussain, of Coombe Boys' School, won an extra mile award in the years 10/11 category, for his piece on the Shia mosque in Tooting being shut down because of safety concerns.

He said: "It was an absolutely exhilarating opportunity to experience the world of journalism."

Group managing editor Andy Parkes, who founded the scheme and helped present the awards, said: "This is one of my favourite events, and it just gets better every year."

"The enthusiasm and dedication of the young reporters never ceases to amaze me and it is an honour to recognise their achievements.

"We know it helps immensely when they are applying for university places and a number of the young reporters who took part in year one have already gone on to become professional journalists."

"I'm already looking forward to next year."

Peter Le Riche, from the University of Roehampton, the awards' higher education partner, said: "Our congratulations go to each one of the winners for the work they have put in. The students I spoke to at the awards were clearly serious about becoming responsible journalists, which is very heartening to see."

'Greedy' council spy cars to be cut back

REPORTER

JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

They are a familiar sight to Kingston drivers – even when using their periscope cameras to peer over hedges at junctions.

But use of the CCTV "spy cars" for parking enforcement could be severely cut back after the Government said "greedy" and "overzealous" councils were using them as a "cash cow".

Councillor David Cunningham, new lead member for transport, said: "I'm not for us using it as a milch cow. We don't want to clobber our residents. Kingston is quite sensible about what they use the mobile cameras for."

Last year, the council raked in £4,856,982 in parking fines revenue – putting it fourth out of 187 councils from across the UK that supplied figures.

Under proposed new rules, parking wardens will have to fix tickets to drivers' windscreens, as most tickets will no longer be sent by post.

Parking consultant and former Kingston Council parking manager John McArdle said there was "an almost total lack of endorsement of a proposed ban on CCTV" when the Government consulted the public on its plans.

He said: "All in all, it seems like a solution looking for a problem, and must be far from the most important challenge facing local and national politicians at the present time."

But Communities Secretary Eric Pickles said CCTV "should be used to catch criminals, and not as a cash cow".

He said: "Spy cars can be seen lurking on every street, raking in cash for greedy councils."

"Overzealous parking enforcement and unreasonable stealth fines by post undermine the high street [and] push up the cost of living."

Kelvin Reynolds, British Parking Association director of policy, agreed that "better regulation" of CCTV was needed but said: "The Government has sprung this amendment on everyone with little notice. The proposed approach is heavy handed by a Government seeking to deregulate."

Councils will still be able to send CCTV-issued tickets by post for bad parking near schools, in bus lanes and on red routes, but will have to publish how they use the money they make from fines.

The council believes bus lane and moving traffic fines, worth hundreds of thousands of pounds a month, will be unaffected by the move.

Driver denies charge

A man has denied trying to seriously injure a community police officer.

Sean McPherson, 22, of Shepley Court, Streatham, denied attempting to cause serious injury by driving dangerously when he appeared at Kingston Crown Court on Monday.

He is accused of trying to seriously injure PCSO Oliver Barrett, by deliberately hitting him with a VW Polo.

He also denied one count of attempted burglary at a home in Burton Road, Kingston, on February 4.

A second defendant, Scott Eden, 25, of Fleetwood Close, Tadworth, denies one count of attempted burglary.

The pair were bailed until next year.

MICHIKO
THEURER

Musical chapel

An American violinist will perform a one-off charity gig to support the restoration of a medieval Kingston chapel.

Musician Michiko Theurer will perform in support of the Lovekyn Chapel restoration fund.

Theurer says: "The chapel will be undergoing much-needed restoration in summer 2015 and I wanted to help support these efforts with my playing."

"I believe that the experience of an architectural space is integral to how we hear and feel music."

The recital will include original works and favourites such as Bach's Partita as well as the premiere of a piece written specifically for the occasion.

Theurer says: "I could not imagine a more perfect space to perform this than Lovekyn Chapel."

● Michiko Theurer, Lovekyn Chapel, London Road, Kingston; July 14, 7.30pm; £10 (all proceeds to benefit the Lovekyn Chapel restoration fund); visit michikotheurer.com/lovekyn-chapel.html.

DANCE OFF

IGNITION DANCE FESTIVAL SHOWCASE

● Rose Theatre, 24-26 High Street, Kingston; Saturday, July 12, 7pm; £5 to £15; rosetheatre.kingston.org, call 08444 821556.

Street dance fever will hit the borough as a showcase with budding choreographers storms Kingston, writes Nazia Dewji.

The Ignition Dance Festival features seven talented young choreographers cherry-picked from an open call.

The crew will street-dance their way across Kingston with outdoor freestyle shows before they make their way to the Rose Theatre for their final masterpiece produced by Kingston's Canbury Road residents, the BalletBoyz.

Kathryn Woodvine, arts commissioning manager for Kingston, says: "There is a lot of dancing going on in the borough but it's not joined up or connected so we wanted to change that and raise the profile of dance."

"It's going to be very varied. Some of the dancers are really influenced by topical issues of today such as what is going on in the Ukraine, others prefer the more humorous light-hearted dance telling a story about everyday life. It is going to be a real mix of different styles. An audience who is not used to dance will appreciate it and people with an open mind."

The Ignition Dance Festival is part of the month-long International Youth Arts Festival run by charity Creative Youth.

Some emerging choreographers who have worked on the showcase have previously danced for the BBC, the Greenwich Dance Agency, the San Francisco Hip Hop Dance Festival as well as the Breakin' Convention at Sadler's Wells in London.

IMAGINING A FUTURE WAR

A youth drama group will present a powerful piece of original theatre in Surbiton next week.

Kingston Junior Drama Group will perform Conversations in a Time of War at the Cornerhouse community arts centre next Tuesday and Wednesday evening.

Set one year in the future, July 2015, the play imagines an England once again entrenched in a war abroad, where thousands of men have left for the battlefield, many never to return.

At home, women and children try to carry on as normal, but the increasing loss of life begins to change people's attitudes towards the conflict.

Meanwhile, 14-year-old Anna's boyfriend lies about his age to become a volunteer soldier, and her enthusiasm for the fighting begins to fade.

Conversations in a Time of War will be presented by two casts of young people from Kingston Junior Drama Company.

● Conversations in a Time of War; Cornerhouse community centre, Douglas Road, Surbiton; Tuesday, July 8, 7.30pm & Wednesday, July 9, 8pm; £3; reservations by email only to kingstonjdc@aol.com.

WATCH THE BIRDIES

Young film-makers will get to see their work on the silver screen when an international film festival holds an awards ceremony and screening night in Kingston next week.

The Birdies, which celebrates short movies by amateur film-makers, aged 16 to 26, will be showing this year's winning entries at the Odeon in the Rotunda, as part of the 2014 International Youth Arts Festival.

Festival patron and film producer Kevin Loader – who produced Armando Iannucci's Oscar-nominated political satire In the Loop – will be there, and will also give a talk to the young nominees and award winners.

Festival director Velko Georgievski said: "The Birdies aims to give young artists, up to 26 years old, a chance to showcase their work at the Odeon."

"They also get the rare opportunity to mingle and network with industry professionals, film directors, producers and with our patron, Hollywood producer Kevin Loader, who is our special guest speaker."

● Birdies Film Festival: Odeon Cinema, Kingston; July 7; 6.15pm; £6.60; visit thebirdiesff.com or email thebirdiesff@gmail.com for more information.

RUN OF THE GREEN

Calling all young people – want to try something new? Why not try taking up lawn bowls as a hobby... writes Neesha Gill.

Now before you laugh me off of the page and claim that this is only something your granddad would play, there are number of reasons why you should consider it.

Bowls is not the most high-profile sport out there and traditionally has lacked appeal to the younger generation, but in a couple of months time the stars of the sport will line up alongside the likes of Mo Farah at the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow.

A big draw for the sport is it is an activity participants can enjoy at their own pace in the great outdoors.

Unlike highly-demanding and fast paced sports such as football, or tennis, bowls takes a more laid-back approach with minimal stress on the body, so this leisurely sport can be enjoyed without having to worry about sweating in the sun.

So what exactly is the aim of the game? Played by singles, or in teams of two, three, or four, the game is played straight up and down a flat pitched lawn.

The aim is to roll your bowls (woods) as close as possible to a smaller ball called the jack or kitty, scoring more points for the number of your bowls that finish closest after each end.

Barry Willingham, secretary at the Wimbledon Park Bowls Club, began playing 27 years ago. He is now heavily involved in coaching and encourages young people to take up the sport.

He says: "Bowls is a rare sport, which is for people of all ages but I would encourage younger people to take up the sport as it's very enjoyable and also it gets people out in the open."

"I've seen first-hand how younger people admit to thinking bowls would be boring and dull, but at the end of a session they say how much they loved it. The skill factor of the game is quite high and so they find it challenging and fun."

Still not convinced? With more than 2,500 clubs across England, find your local club at bowlsengland.com/for-bowlers/find-a-club for more information.

Kingston is hot property for buy-to-let investors

Kingston is hot property as far as buy-to-let investors are concerned. That's according to letting agents Leaders who say rents are strong in the town and gross yields of up to five per cent can be achieved for the right property in the right location. "This is very appealing compared with low interest on savings, particularly if you factor in the potential capital growth in the medium to long-term," says Sean Hulbert, senior branch manager of Leaders in Kingston.

Demand is high in Kingston, he says for one and two bedroom apartments located close to Kingston and Surbiton mainline rail stations.

"We know that good quality properties of this kind let very quickly, with little risk of void periods.

He adds: "Kingston offers some fantastic opportunities for investors. Demand for rental property here remains high and this shows no signs of changing.

"Inaccessible and expensive mortgages, along with the need for people to be flexible for work, means more people choosing to rent, many for the long-term.

"There is a real shortage of good quality property available on the lettings market and properties that do become available are letting extremely quickly."

His findings are supported by the Association of Residential Letting Agents (ARLA) which says tenants are facing increasing competition as supply in the private rented sector contracts.

Its latest quarterly research among its members found that 59 per cent reported more would-be tenants than properties available.

This figure represents the second successive increase, from 46 per cent in Q3 2013 to 54 per cent in Q1 2014.

Tenants are also less likely to haggle for properties. The number of respondents who have seen an increase in tenants haggling with landlords over rents in the last six months has fallen from 44 per cent to 33 per cent.

Step up home security

Police forces across the country say burglaries increase during the summer months when home security is sometimes overlooked. Housebuilder Taylor Wimpey offers the following advice on guarding your house against crime:

■ Never leave windows open when you leave the house, even for a short time. This is an open invitation to burglars.

■ Don't forget to make sure windows and doors are secure even when you are at home. It only takes a second for someone to get into your home and take things without you noticing.

■ Keep all wallets, purses, credit cards, car keys and other valuables out of sight to avoid temptation for would-be burglars.

■ Keep your gardening tools securely locked away and out of sight in a shed or a garage when they're not being used. Tools can be used to break into your home.

■ If you're going on holiday, ask a trusted neighbour to help keep your house safe while you're away. Ask them to park their car on your driveway, open and close the curtains each day.

Conditions of acceptance of advertisements

General

1. The following conditions apply to the placing of an order for insertion of advertisements in Newsquest Media Group ("Newsquest") printed or electronic publications. Each order will form a separate agreement and English law will apply. Any change to these conditions must be agreed by us in writing (which means by exchange of letter, fax or email). An "advertiser" means any person or organisation placing an advertisement on their own account or on behalf of another.

Contents

2. The advertiser confirms that the advertisement complies with all applicable legislation, regulations and codes of practice, including the codes supervised by the Advertising Standards Authority. We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.

3. The advertiser further confirms that:
 i) the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libelous of any person;
 ii) all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
 iii) in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

Payment

4. All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any future advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.

5. By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.

6. We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts, including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

7. We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Cancellation

8. We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.

9. We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

10. We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

11. Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

12. We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.

13. We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.

14. The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.

15. We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

Method of payment

We will be pleased to accept your payment by any of the following methods:

- CHEQUE - Made payable to NEWSQUEST (LONDON) LTD.
- BACS - Electronic Bank Transfer • CASH - Paid to one of our Branch Offices.

Limited action as cricket is washed out

Chessington bowler Colin Watson, far right, sent down one of the few deliveries in the Surrey Championship this weekend.

Division One Malden Wanderers's home encounter with Farnham was abandoned after 20 overs, while Chessington's Division Two trip to Purley went the same way after 22.1 overs.

Division Four Kingstonian, deducted a point last week, might have hoped for the same as they lost by eight wickets at Oxted & Limpsfield.

Discarded Ansley is back for England

Surbiton's Giselle Ansley is out to put World Cup disappointment behind her with a good showing at the Commonwealth Games, writes Colin Pike.

Ansley was not selected for the England squad that finished 11th at the Rabobank World Cup in the Hague last month, but is in the 16-strong group heading for Glasgow later this month.

The 22-year-old and fellow Sugden Road favourites Georgie Twigg and Hollie Webb will take on Scotland, Wales, and South Africa in the Investec London Cup Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in Stratford next week as a pre-Games warm-up.

"It's a real honour to have been selected for the Commonwealth Games," said Ansley, who will be making her debut in the event.

"For me, missing out on playing at the World Cup was devastating, but we are a strong group and I know we can put in some strong performances up in Glasgow."

Twigg, a bronze medal winner with England in India four years ago, added: "Delhi was a fantastic experience and it was great to get a bronze medal at one of my first major tournaments."

"We were obviously disappointed with the result at the World Cup, but it's great to have another major tournament in the same summer to go out there as a team and improve."

England, who will meet Scotland, Wales, Australia and Malaysia in their four Commonwealth Games pool matches, saw head coach Jason Lee quit his post last week in the wake of his country's worst showing at a World Cup.

Lee has been replaced by Danny Kerry for the next two tournaments.

Malden Wanderers youngster Joe Lavender is hoping the England Cricket Board's U19 club T20 tournament is a success for more reasons than one.

The 16-year-old former Surrey age group player and his teenage team-mates hit the streets of Kingston last week to promote next Friday's first group match at Cambridge Avenue when Esher Eagles are the visitors.

The tournament, which also features matches with Sunbury Chieftains (July 16, h), Spencer Spitfires (July 18, a) and Wimbledon Bloods (July 25, a), is designed to help keep youngsters in the 15-to-19 age group interested in playing the game.

It takes a leaf out of the marketing book of county cricket's T20 Blast competition and promises cheerleaders, loud music and prizes for spectators.

Teddington School student Lavender, who has been busy circulating posters and flyers promoting the competition, usually plays for the club's Surrey Championship second team.

And he hopes the T20 format will be a refreshing change for him and his peers.

"We used to have an U21s team on a Sunday, but we started struggling to field a team and so it was scrapped," said Lavender.

"Players my age do not necessarily want to play cricket all day, so this is an idea to keep teenagers in the sport until they play adult cricket.

"It's been good to have this responsibility – and it's a chance to let people really know we're here."

"We've designed our own kit, and we're planning music to accompany the action. If we get plenty of local support along, it should be great fun."

Should Malden – renamed the Rangers for this competition – top their group and then win the Surrey competition they will take on fellow county winners from Kent, Durham and Yorkshire on finals day later this summer.

There is also the added incentive of winning tickets to the T20 Blast final, should their own matchday experience live up to the hype.

"We've got Test match tickets to give away, loads of music and even some cheerleaders," added Lavender.

"We will be rated on our matchday atmosphere and the team with the best will get tickets to the T20 final, so we are going for it."

And the skipper, who scored 48 for his U17 team last week, will be happy if he gets the ball off the square.

"My season has not got off to the best of starts runs wise so, hopefully, I can smash a few next week and get some form," he said.

"We are aiming to get out of the group stages, but we only have one 18-year-old available, so we've got a young side. We'll see where we go."

Limited chances: Tommy Williams will be watching closely on Saturday

Ks have plenty to play for Results might not count at this stage of the summer, but boss Tommy Williams says Kingstonian have plenty to prove this weekend, writes Stuart Amos.

The new Ks chief will cast his eye over five hopefuls in Saturday's training match at Walton Casuals – which kicks off the club's pre-season campaign – and Williams wants them to impress.

"We do want to get into that winning mentality early, but at the same time it is part of getting everyone match sharp for the start of the season," he said.

"We only wanted to bring in a small number of trialists – about four or five – so we did not disrupt the group we've already got."

"I know what they can do it is just a case of seeing how they fit in with everyone."

BROTHERLY LOVE: Surbiton's England U21 brothers James and Jonathan Gall helped secure a 2-1 series win over Germany in Dusseldorf last week. The pair featured as their side beat the hosts 3-2 on Wednesday and 4-3 on Saturday, before Sunday's series ending 3-2 defeat. They return to the National Sports Centre at Bisham Abbey next week for three games against Holland U21 from which they hope to gain selection for the 18-strong squad heading to the Fintro Euro-Hockey Junior Championships in Belgium later this month.

SPOT RETAINED: Surbiton's Moe Sbihi will remain in the Team GB men's four crew for this weekend's final World Cup regatta in Lucerne this weekend. The quartet, featuring Sbihi's Molesey Boat Club team-mates Andrew Triggs Hodge and George Nash, won gold last time out and will use this weekend as final preparation for the World Championships, which start a week later.

Ex-Tolworth student ready for lonely life

A former Tolworth Girls School student is getting used to a spell of solitary confinement this month as she prepares for a daunting 2015 challenge, writes Pippa Field.

Lizzy Foreman sets sail in the 4,020 nautical mile Mini Transat solo yacht race next year and takes on the 2,600 nautical mile Les Sables – Azores – Les Sables race in July to get some much needed experience.

The Worcester Park-born 24-year-old, currently in her first season of solo offshore racing, started in the sport as a 12-year-old at Queen Mary Sailing Club.

And she admits she needs all the practice she can get before she plots her course from France to Guadeloupe in the Caribbean.

"It's one of the biggest races and perfect preparation for next year with it being such a long crossing," she said of next month's race, which starts on July 20.

"I need to prepare well and get used to things like having food for the entire trip."

"I've been sailing for 12 years, but I have never raced such a distance, so it will be good to do it in a race sense and push the boat harder."

"I'm really looking forward to next year, even getting to the start line is an achievement in itself."

Foreman has spent much of the past few months sailing the high seas all alone, but was among friends at the J.P. Morgan Asset Management Round the Island Race. She finished 348th overall out of more than 1,400 boats that entered the annual 50-nautical mile circuit race around the Isle of Wight.

"The past two months I have basically spent a lot of my time alone, which admittedly can get quite lonely," said Foreman, who turned 24 on the day of the race.

"Recently, I did not see anyone sailing for two days apart from lots of cargo boats."

"If it's a race, you don't feel as lonely as the other boats are normally close by."
